The award winning designer and author of this designer knitwear double pattern booklet, Marianne Henio, has been machine knitting for almost 30 years now, ever since she resigned from her career to have a family. She has designed and sold many individually made bespoke pieces during this time. Marianne is passionate about being able to visualise a design, create the pattern and then produce the finished piece of knitwear. This has kept her in the industry for all these years and now she is sharing her knowledge in this field with you.

This pattern book contains the Downton Hat & the Cloche Hat, with suggested variations. Marianne used a bulky/chunky knitting machine for these designs. The yarns used for her patterns are specified in the pattern booklets, but gauge guides and schematic diagrams and measurements are given so that alternative yarns can be used dependant on your choice and source. If you look at the catwalks and see what is being produced by top designers in the genre of knitwear today, you can't help but be inspired. The art of machine knitwear design today has certainly come a long way since the 1980s. Marianne recently won Fashion Designer 2016 Award at the All Women's Achievers Awards Ceremony for her latest catwalk designs. Marianne creates designs which suit all ages. They are sophisticated in style, but very simple to knit for the beginner in machine knitting. Her instructions are easy to follow and concise. Her Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter and Christmas Collection machine knitting pattern books are already available and have proved to be very popular. Check out YouTube for Marianne's videos. Included is the video of Marianne's new 'no roll' edging which all machine knitters will want to see!
