The Lake District is a haven for hikers, climbers, and nature lovers. With its diverse landscapes, ranging from serene lakes to majestic hills and challenging ridges, there is something for everyone to enjoy. Whether you are a seasoned adventurer or a novice hiker, the Lake District caters to all skill levels.

Discover the Magnificent Mountain Peaks

For those seeking a thrilling challenge, Scafell Pike awaits. As the highest mountain in England, reaching its summit rewards you with breathtaking panoramic views of the surrounding valleys and lakes. The invigorating climb may require some endurance, but the sense of accomplishment at the top makes it all worthwhile.

Experience the Magic of Lake District's Craggy Ridges

If you are an adrenaline seeker, tackling the challenging ridges of the Lake District will offer an unparalleled adventure. The notorious Striding Edge on Helvellyn will test your nerve with its exposed and narrow ridge. Traverse carefully as you embrace the stunning views on both sides, with exhilaration pulsating through your veins.

An inspirational and detailed guidebook to fifty memorable walks on the high fells of the English Lake District. These circular routes on the high Lakeland fells have been chosen to provide the moderately adventurous walker with a range of essential walks for exploring the region. The walks are all graded, making the guide equally suitable for less experienced walkers looking for new summits and undiscovered areas. Only the mildest of scrambling will be encountered as these are four-season walks. All routes are illustrated with Harvey maps and the author's pictorial route diagrams.
