

Find Your People Study Guide Plus Streaming Video

In today's fast-paced and interconnected world, it is easy to feel isolated and disconnected from others. This is especially true for students who are busy navigating through the challenges of academic life. However, finding your people, a supportive community of like-minded individuals, can make a significant difference in your personal and academic growth.

The Importance of Finding Your People

When you find your people, you are connecting with others who share similar interests, goals, and values. This connection helps to create a sense of belonging and provides a support system that can greatly enhance your overall well-being.

Studies have shown that students who have a strong support network are more likely to succeed academically. They have access to a wealth of resources, advice, and mentorship. By connecting with others who are also passionate about their studies, you can engage in thought-provoking discussions, exchange ideas, and collaborate on projects.

Furthermore, finding your people can have a positive impact on your mental health. When you have a supportive community around you, it becomes easier to cope with stress, manage academic pressures, and overcome obstacles. This support network can also serve as a source of inspiration and motivation, keeping you driven towards your goals.

Finding Your People

So, how can you find your people? Here are a few tips to get you started:

- Join clubs and organizations: Universities and colleges offer a wide range of clubs and organizations that cater to various interests. Whether it's a sports club, a cultural organization, or an academic society, these groups can provide an excellent platform to connect with individuals who share common passions.
- Attend events and workshops: Keep an eye out for events and workshops that align with your interests. These gatherings provide an opportunity to meet like-minded individuals who are likely to be passionate about the same subjects as you.
- Utilize online platforms: With the digital age, connecting with others has never been easier. Use social media platforms, online forums, and study group websites to connect with individuals who are seeking the same support network as you.
- Network: Attend conferences, seminars, and networking events that are relevant to your field of study. These events not only open doors to career opportunities but also provide a chance to meet people with similar aspirations.

You Aren't Alone in Feeling Alone

Never in the history of civilization have we been more connected and felt more alone. We are all so lonely. What if the ways we have set up our lives are fundamentally broken?

In the Find Your People video Bible study, bestselling author Jennie Allen looks at the original community in Genesis, the Trinity, and the creation of people to see what God had planned for us all along, Jennie offers practical solutions for creating true community in a world that's both more connected and more isolating than ever before.

Drawing on fascinating insights from science and history, timeless biblical truth, and vulnerable stories from her own life, Jennie helps us discover exactly how to dive into the deep end and experience the full wonder of community. Along the way, we'll discover the five life patterns required to build deep, connected relationships.

You were created to play, engage, adventure, and explore—with others. Because while the ache of loneliness is real, it doesn't have to be your reality.

This study guide has everything you need for a full Bible study experience, including:

- The study guide itself - personal study between sessions, and a Leader's Guide.
- An individual access code to stream all seven video sessions online (you don't need to buy a DVD!).

Watch on any device!
