Poems of an empowered Author is a collection of poetry which is based on giving support, voice and vote to women. This collection of poetry is written by an author for the women of the world. It is important to give women the importance they deserve. We are people who fight to improve ourselves. We are mostly independent women. I hope that every woman who reads these poems feels identified with at least one poem. My goal is to transmit strength, hope and power to a world that is constantly evolving. A message from an independent Woman, Artist and defender of everything that makes our hearts happy because I particularly think with my heart because in this 21st century there is no corner where we can store disappointment, resentment or weakness. Every woman has her own effort expended, her own opinion, and her own willpower. Some weaker than others stronger. Some more shy than others stronger. Some less independent than others more independent. In this poetic collection you will find support, voice and vote for women. You're a woman? You should read this collection.
