Bill Gardner was stuck in traffic one day on his way to work in Los Angeles when the obvious thought occurred to him.

Why not quit his job and move his wife, 2-year-old daughter and two dogs to the northwoods of Wisconsin to pursue the large, toothy and mostly mythical muskellunge, the fish of his dreams? No more traffic jams, no more smog, and who cares about a paycheck?

Casting the real world aside, Gardner followed that dream, uprooting his family and renting a cabin on a northwoods lake. In Time on the Water, he tells the rest of the story, a humorous but determined quest for Moby Musky.

In the years since it was published Time on the Water has grown to become a classic fishing book. Now available on Kindle..
